Making the most of retirement

Harry

I was a news journalist until I was 60. I wanted to retire and have more time with my wife. Sadly, she died five years ago and now I'm alone in the house. Our son, Jamie, is a teacher in Morocco and last year I went there for a holiday. I travelled to lots of countries when I worked, but this was my first trip to North Africa. I really want to go back. I'd like to travel into the Sahara and take photographs of the people and animals that live there, but I need to learn a bit of Arabic first.

Annette

Nine months ago I retired from my job as a French teacher, sold my flat in London, and moved to a small village. It's incredibly quiet after London, but my life is much busier now. I'm decorating my new house and I'm learning to drive – I never needed a car in London. I spend a lot of time in my garden, too. I enjoy working in it and I'm planning to grow vegetables next year and I also want to get some chickens. There are sometimes problems, but luckily, my neighbours are really friendly.

Megan

Yesterday was my last day at work and now I can do what I want. After forty years as a cook, I need to lose a few kilos, so I'm going to learn to play golf. I'm planning to do a computer course at the local college. It's a good way to learn about computers and meet new people, and I'd like to make some new friends. I'd also like to get a new computer so I can chat with my grandchildren on the internet every day – they live in Dubai and I don't see them very often.

Example: Harry worked in television until he retired.

FILE 11

Listening 1

- Kerry So, Jamie, what's it like living in Paris?
- Jamie Oh, it's very different to Cardiff. The first thing you notice is the clothes. I prefer to dress casually, even when I'm teaching. But I can't do that in Paris. My students are businessmen and they're always really well dressed, so now I have some formal clothes that I only use for work. The worst thing is that clothes are really expensive there.
- Kerry Is your French good?
- Jamie It's quite good now. I'm having lessons and I can have conversations. It's a beautiful language, but I don't always understand what people say because my French isn't perfect.
- Kerry What are the people like?
- Jamie Some people say that people in Paris aren't very friendly – but it's the same in London, some people are friendly and some aren't. My neighbours, Jean-Luc and Marie, are lovely. I met them on the day I moved into my apartment and now I have dinner with them every weekend.
- Kerry That's lucky, because you aren't a very good cook!
- Jamie Well, fortunately there are lots of great restaurants in Paris and the food is fantastic – and it's cheaper to eat out there. One thing that surprised me though is that there are a lot of fast food restaurants – and most of the customers aren't foreign tourists, they're French. So it's a myth that all French people eat healthily!
- Kerry What's driving like in France?
- Jamie Well, I don't really use my car very much, but I think most French people drive well. One or two of my friends don't, though. My girlfriend always drives fast – even on little streets. She uses her phone when she's driving and she shouts at other drivers. It's safer to walk than travel in a car with Nathalie!
- Kerry Oh, dear. Poor you!

- 1
I retired six months ago and my son bought me a computer. I did a course so I could learn how to use it. I don't use it every day. I don't like sending emails – I prefer to write letters. But I do buy quite a lot of things on the internet – like food and books. It's very easy to find what you want and the best thing for me is that I don't have to carry anything home!
- 2
Some of my friends think I'm really strange because I don't have a computer at home. I do know how to use a computer – I'm a travel agent so I have to use one in my job. But I don't want one in my house. I don't like playing computer games and I prefer to do my shopping in the town centre, so I can see what I'm buying.
- 3
I spend around four or five hours every evening on my computer. I use it to write essays for university, but mostly I play computer games, check my Facebook account to see what my friends are doing, or download films to watch. It's really easy to find new films, and it's cheaper than going to the cinema.
- 4
The internet is great, isn't it? My daughter lives in Colombia – she teaches English there – and it's really expensive to call her on my home phone. But now we have Skype and we talk to each other two or three times a week. She's got two sons, and they sometimes make video calls to me. It's lovely to see and hear them.
- 5
I work at home and I use my computer all day. I'm a reporter so I use the internet to find out information when I'm writing an article, and I have an email account which I use to send work to the newspaper. But I don't just use my computer for work. I like to watch TV on my laptop, and I'm always emailing my family and friends. I write around 30 emails a day. I also have a Twitter account and a blog that I use every day to tell people about my life.
