V: On Holiday: Fasten Your Seatbelt, a number of famous people try different jobs. This job is for a chalet girl, for Crystal Holidays in the skiing resort of Verbier. And our applicant is ...

TW: Toyah Willcox.

V: Your job, please?

TW: Chalet girl.

V: Essential?

TW: Catering experience, outgoing personality and basic French.

V: And salary?

TW: £56 a week, plus tips, accommodation, insurance and ski pass.

V: Applicant accepted.

V: Toyah Willcox works as a TV presenter, but this week she has a new job as a chalet girl in Switzerland. Toyah arrives at Verbier to start work and her boss shows her some of her jobs.

C: OK. In the bathroom, clean the sink, mirror, bath ... OK?

TW: OK.

V: Toyah starts her work with a trip to the supermarket to buy food for the week.

C: Erm, Toyah, how much did you spend?

TW: Um ... a hundred and seventy-four.

C: I was thinking more along the lines of ... the list would cost perhaps about a hundred francs.

TW: Oh ...

V: Two hours later the guests arrive.

TW: Hello. Welcome!

V: Toyah welcomes them. They've travelled by plane and then by bus from England. They want to ski, relax and eat some very good food.

V: Toyah makes soup ...

TW: Just check that it's salt ... yep. Uh! Oh no! Uh!

V: And a cake.

TW: This is my first cake.

G: It looks good.

G: Did you know that Rosemary is a professional cook?

TW: Oh, gosh oh ... Oh no!

V: Early morning and Toyah is up to get fresh bread for breakfast ... but then there's a problem.

TW: Mistake number three. I haven't got a key. Trish, Brian, it's Toyah. Sorry.

G: No, it's all right. Don't apologise.

TW: Go back to bed and I'll, I'll bring you a cup of tea.

V: A little later, Toyah makes breakfast for the guests.

TW: Um ... The plate's hot.

G: I don't ... I won't have an egg.

TW: Oh, sorry.

V: After breakfast, the guests go skiing, and Toyah is alone ... but there's no time to rest. Toyah hovers the rooms, she makes the beds, cleans the bath and washes the floor.

V: But it's not all housework for Toyah. She goes out with her guests, gives them a hot drink and tries out a new sport! Off she goes ...

TW: And I'm not coming back!
