

suspicion. My city is on	track to become the largest in my country by 2020. The area where I live is constantly at	risk of flooding. My biggest worry by
far at the moment is money. The manufacturing industry in my country at the moment is in	decline. Climate change in the world today is out of	control. People in my country are overweight, on
average. My country's economy is doing very well, at	present. Humans are, by	nature, selfish animals. I am in
danger of forgetting my English if I don't keep studying. When I use public transport, I try to keep my valuables out of	sight. People who say bad things about others on the internet should be made to go on	trial for defamation of character. Everyone has the right to at
least a basic job. Everyone should have to limit their 'carbon footprint' by	law. Banning smoking in public places, in	effect limits people's freedom. I'm only learning English out of
necessity for my job. Recently I've been feeling a little under	the weather. If I got a new job this year I'd be over	the moon. When I first started learning English, I was under
the impression it would be easy. I have a friend whose way of dressing is very over	the top. In my job, you're considered over	the hill when you reach forty. Politicians should always be above
