Gabby's blog

I <sup>0</sup> was watching a TV programme last week on health, and it was really frightening.

I <sup>1</sup> _____ usually do any exercise. According to the programme, this means I <sup>2</sup> _____ have a lot of health problems when I'm older. Well, there's a new gym in our town – it <sup>3</sup> _____ only been open for a month, and I decided to go there. But, the day was not a success – I <sup>4</sup> _____ never going to do anything like that again!

First of all, when I went in, there was this really loud music and everyone <sup>5</sup> _____ wearing these really expensive sports clothes. It was like a 1980s Hollywood movie. I was in my old tracksuit and trainers. I <sup>6</sup> _____ look very professional.

Then, Jim, the trainer, showed me how to use the equipment. I remember sitting the wrong way on one of the machines. Luckily, Jim just said, "Er... you have to sit the other way, because it <sup>7</sup> _____ work like that!"

Jim was very nice and he said "if you want to do some simple exercise, I <sup>8</sup> _____ show you how to use the running machine." That was fun, ... until I looked around, and I saw that my boss from work <sup>9</sup> _____ using the very next machine! It was so embarrassing! In fact, I was happy to leave, and I <sup>10</sup> _____ gone back since that day. I'm just too shy!!

Hi Nick

I'm sorry I can't come and see you this evening. I've had a crazy day and I'm still very stressed.

My friend Chloë phoned me yesterday. She broke her leg two days ago. She asked me to do her a favour and drive her to the hospital. Well, I said OK, although I only passed my driving test last month, and I still feel nervous behind the steering wheel.

Anyway, I felt OK when I went to bed, but it snowed during the night, and when I got up this morning, everything was white.

Well, I got to Chloë's house OK, but then we went on the motorway. There was a real traffic jam, which was OK for me because I don't like driving fast. But when we left the motorway, the car was making this strange, awful noise. I was trying to find out where it was coming from, and I wasn't looking at the road - so, I went through a red light! I tried to stop quickly and we skidded across the road! We almost had an accident. Luckily, we were able to keep driving and I took Chloë to the hospital. She decided to take the train back, for some reason. That was lucky, because my car isn't working now and the mechanics are looking at it.

And that's why I can't come to your house! Maybe we can meet next week?
